EVER FEEL OVERWHELMED?

ARE YOU

- in a dead end job?
  - looking for advancement in your present job?
    - in an "empty nest"?
      - unhappy with your life?
        - looking for a change?
          - a single parent?
            - willing to rarn and grow?
              - eager to meet new people?
                - a displaced homemaker?
                  - considering a new way of life?

If you have checked any of these, you should consider becoming an adult student.

With all these questions and decisions to be made, wouldn't it be wise to consider discussing concerns with a counselor to help you plan your back-to-school adventure?

EDUCATION CAN GET YOU OUT FROM UNDER!

1. CAREER GOALS AND COUNSELING

Making an appointment with a college counselor is a good place to start. Counselors are knowledgeable about institutional resources and can help you collect information and make good camous contacts. Testing for interest and aptitude is available to help you with making a career choice. Previous employment and/or academic experience certainly counts and may speed you to a degree. Now is the time to see that counselor, even if you have made a career decision. A counselor can help you plan your study adventure. Having made a decision, now is the time to complete an admissions application for the college of your choice-contact numbers are located at the back of this booklet.

2. ACADEMIC PLANNING

Ever take a trip without a road map?

A "plan of study" will serve as a quide to successful completion of your degree. School catalogs, generally found in admissions. counseling, or career resource areas, contain lists of required and elective couses. Review these, then see a counselor or academic advisor and plan a course of study. You should meet with your academic advisor once each semester or term, and certainly no less than once each academic year to make certain you are "on the right road."

3. THE ACADEMIC ENVIRONMENT

Developing good study skills is important to your success in college. Most colleges provide student services in tutoring as well as courses in reading and writing to help you review or develop the skills necessary to be successful in your new academic life. The instructors in these areas know your concerns and are especially trained to help you. If you feel overwhelmed, don't be afraid to ask for help.

4. PAYING THE BILL

Methods of paying vary from school to school. Definition of early and late registrations, late charges and related lab and materials fees can always be found in school catalogs or registration guides. Look carefully for this information and be certain to ask questions so you will not be caught unaware.

The office of the college registrar, the cashier of the business office staff, or the financial aid office can always supply information about payment needed.

Specialized plans to assist students may include deferred payment plans or tuition assistance programs. Low-cost insurance is often available for the student and dependents.

If you qualify for financial aid, you may find that some, part, or all of your tuition will be paid from a variety of financial aid options. If the money must be repaid, be certain you understand the amounts owed and exactly when they are due.

5. SUPPORT SYSTEMS

It is reassuring to know that most colleges provide a variety of support services to make your transition from home or work into the academic community easier.

Day care services in or around campus can often be found for your children.

Ethnic organizations or clubs as well as peer support groups sprout all over college campuses. Special student service groups have been established to address the needs presented by non-traditional students enrolled on a full- or part-time basis.

Colleges provide resource centers, orientation classes, library facilities, parking, and cafeteria service

6. PLACEMENT AFTER GRADUATION

Most adult learners are wise and cautious and have already taken a careful look at potential placement opportunities before they even enroll.

Most likely you are returning to school because you already know what skills and academic credentials are required for your chosen occupation. But making a contact, and keeping in touch, with the college placement office can enhance the opportunities you might have at graduation time.

ţ

COSTS TO CONSIDER . .

Tuition, Books and Supplies.

Costs will include tuition, books, and supplies. Expenses will vary according to your school and academic major.

$__.

Š .

Room and Board. Transportation.

These expenses will depend on your choice of an on-campus or commuter college. Information about on- and off-campus housing will be available in the college housing office.

**$ .

Child Care.

Non-traditional students are frequently single parents and will have to make special arrangements for pre-school youngsters. It is wise to keep in mind class hours as well as study time which might be needed.

Ś

The Bottom Line

TOTAL

General information about financial aid can be obtained from college guidance counselors, financial aid officers, or admissions officers in colleges.

At the college you can find out-

- (1) what is available
- (2) when to apply
- (3) where to file your application

A few colleges require specialized application forms but most often you have to fill out one of the following:

Financial Aid Form (College Scholarship Service)
OR

Family Financial Statement (American College Testing Company)

While your decision to return to college can be made any time, there is generally a "best time" to apply for financial assistance. That time is January through early March!

Remember, there are really two applications to complete for cr " : application for admission (from the Admissio ...ce), and application for financial aid (from the Financial Aid Office) if cost is a concern. Financial Aid decisions are usually not made for students who have not yet been admitted to a college.

And frankly, that's about all there is to getting started.

Won't you respond to our invitation? Call that college and say, "I'm an adult, and I want to come to college."

And remember,

Opportunity remains. The best book hasn't been written; the best race has yet to be run!
